Glass Joins NuWave Technology Partners as a Convergent Consultant

(Grand Rapids) –John Glass has joined NuWave Technology Partners as a convergent consultant in its Grand Rapids office.

In his new role, Glass will manage business development and account service for both NuWave Technology Partners and its healthcare division, NuWave Medical Solutions. Among other responsibilities, Glass will assist clients in deploying technology to integrate their computer network and telecommunications infrastructure, and consult on software application development and e-commerce solutions.

With more than 14 years experience in the information technology and telecommunications industry, Glass was previously a business development consultant for First Telecommunications, Grand Rapids.

Among other achievements, Glass has received Cisco™ certification to represent the company's business and networking products. A lifelong resident of Grand Rapids, he holds a BA degree in Communications from Western Michigan University.

Servicing the business and healthcare markets, NuWave Technology Partners (www.nuwavepartners.com) implements state-of-the-art telecommunication systems, builds and supports computer networks, and develops custom software and e-commerce solutions. With offices throughout the state, NuWave is a Microsoft™ Gold Certified Partner and a Cisco™ Premier Certified Partner.

In the healthcare market, NuWave Medical Solutions (www.nuwavemedicalsolutions.com) implements electronic health records (EHR) systems for hospitals and physicians as an exclusive partner with Allscripts™, a leading provider of EHR solutions.

NuWave Technology Partners is one of Michigan's leading information technology providers and a recipient of the 2009 "Michigan 50 Companies to Watch" Award, presented by the Edward Lowe Foundation and Michigan Celebrates Small Business.
